About the Country Amazing Oman

“Oman boasts of a stable, peaceful, liberal, progressive, modern and multi-cultural society with an expatriate population of more than 1.6 million from all over the world belonging to diverse ethnic, linguistic and religious backgrounds. People are freely allowed to practice their religion and Oman also hosts places of worship for the expatriate residents belonging to different religious backgrounds.”

Oman has all the ingredients that nature gives. Being second largest country by size in GCC, Oman has high terrain captivated by the mountainous regions that conceal innumerable valleys, and lagoons, sandy beaches. Down South, Oman surprises visitors with lush tropical greenery and beaches with rainy season from June to August. This natural diversity provides a variety of adventures and options available to tourists, from desert activities to water sports and the other natural activities.

Oman is the ultimate destination for cultural tourism. This is where you will find hundreds of castles, forts, and museums dating back to various historic epochs.

Demographic Details

Total population of Oman reached 5.1 Million by Jibbali. August 2023. This includes 3 Million Omanis and

2.1 Million expatriates, including more than Economic Environment

500,000 Indian nationals.

In Oman, about 50% of the population lives in Muscat. Oman's economic performance improved significantly since 1999 largely due to the mid-year upturn in oil prices.

Oman does not have the immense oil resources as is the case for some of its neighbours. Nevertheless, in recent years, it has found more oil than it has produced.

Agriculture and fishing are the traditional way of life in Oman. Dates and limes, grown extensively in the Batinah coastal plain and the highlands, make up most of the country's agricultural exports. Coconut palms, wheat, and bananas also are grown, and cattle are raised in Dhofar. Other areas grow cereals and forage crops. Poultry production is steadily rising. In the recent years, despite adverse global developments, the Omani economy continued to sustain the growth momentum.

Ethnic groups: The Omani population is ethnically diverse, with several ethnic groups, such as the Zanzibari, Alajami, Al Balushi, Al Lawati and the

and the Batinah coastal plain northwest of the capital;

about 200,000 live in the Dhofar (southern) region; and about 30,000 live in the remote Musandam Peninsula on the Strait of Hormuz. Expatriates' living in Oman mostly consists of guest workers from India, Pakistan, Bangladesh, Morocco, Jordan, and the Philippines.

Education: Since 1970, the government has given high priority to education to develop a domestic work force, which the government considers a vital factor in the country's economic and social progress. In 1986, Oman's first university, Sultan Qaboos University, opened. Other post-secondary institutions include a law school, technical college, banking institute, teachers training college, and health sciences institute. Some 200 scholarships are awarded each year for study abroad.

The major drivers for economic growth are the infrastructure investments associated with national logistics development plans, economic diversification efforts, and trade with the GCC, Asia and Sub-Saharan African countries.
